

Third Kentucky District for Congress.

Thus far the race stands in this district as follows:

RHEA:
Logan	12
Mohlenberg	7
Warren	6

HALSELL:
Warren	15
Butler	4
Montroe	3

Allen has 5, Edmonson has 3, Cumberland has 3 and Clinton 1. Cumberland will probably go for Rhea, although both have fighting chances in that county as well as in Allen and Edmonson. Clinton will likely go for Halsell. It will be remembered that there are 64 votes in the district. It will, therefore, take a fraction over 32 to elect.

In answer to a telegram we received from Bowling Green yesterday evening the following: "Halsell carried Allen county which assures his nomination."

A Postmaster's Statement.

About three years ago there came upon me a feeling of general debility, accompanied with loss of appetite and energy. Eventually rheumatism attacked me in my shoulder and arms, which so disabled me that I could not dress myself. Finally I had to give up my school I was then engaged in teaching. The physicians tried various prescriptions, but failed to bring me relief. In fact some of them seemed to be at a loss to make a diagnosis of my case. The disease finally settled in my right hip and legs, and produced lumps under the skin and swelling of the limb, especially at the ankle, that I could not rest at night or walk except with a crutch. Previously I had been a man of fine physique and strong constitution. Various remedies were tried but no permanent relief followed, and they were abandoned. Seeing a certificate of a case similar to mine that had been cured by Swift's Specific, I concluded to try it. I commenced to improve on the first bottle. Have taken twelve bottles of the large and small, and am glad to say that I have been entirely relieved, and have had no symptom of the disease for more than twelve months. I recommend Swift's Specific to all my friends.

R. L. LEWIS, Postmaster, Central, S. C., June 19, 1886.

FROM 19TH DISTRICT.

To the Chronicle.
Tarsus Grange is preparing to have a Fair, some time next month, which promises to be of interest to the farmers. When the arrangements are completed will let you hear.

Rev. J. W. Hill, presiding Elder, preached two sermons at Tartus Wednesday to good congregations. Dinner was on the ground, and all spent a pleasant day. Messrs. R. H. Pickering and S. A. Caldwell of Clarksville, were there, shaking hands with the people.

The Concert given by Wide Awake Lodge, L. O. G. T., at Palmyra last Friday night, was a success and was well attended.

News was received here last week, that Mr. W. R. Martin, of Obion county, died suddenly of congestion of the lungs on the 11th inst. He was about 70 years old, and formerly lived in this county. He was a magistrate in the 18th District a number of years.

Mr. D. B. Shardon returned home from LaGrange Furnace Tuesday, and will be confined some time, a coal pit which he was burning, sank in with him, and his foot was severely burned.

Corbansdale, Sept. 23rd.

MIDNIGHT SHOW.

Four Hundred Indians on Their Way to Florida.

American of 19th.

As the two trains bearing the captive Indians from Arizona, under escort of United States troops, did not pass through the city until the morning dailies had been issued, The American made note only of the fact that these red men, women and papooses, were expected. It did not send "a representative to Guthrie, to extend to them that welcome for which Tennessee has been noted ever since the days of Sevier, Robertson and others of our noted pioneers." It did not even send a reporter to the exchange basket, to cull, verbatim, and give over to its readers as a specimen of enterprise, a long interview from the St. Louis Globe-Democrat. The charity of letters applies to such methods as were practiced yesterday, the let-me-down-easy title of plagiarism though the cold charity of the world has another name for the practice.

The Indians certainly passed through, nearly four hundred strong. Their coming was awaited by hundreds of people at each of the depots, and was, to one who has never traveled in the great West, the sight of a life time. They were actual Indians, and not the proud, brave creatures that history and romance have pictured. The reader of the "Leather Stocking" series, that have placed high in the rank of novelists J. Fenimore Cooper, would not have found in either of the trains a brave and true young Indian chieftain, or yet the story teller showers such picturesque and beautiful language. The child of tradition, growing up with nature's other flowers and forestry was not the child that was seen yesterday morning on the train. They were about the toughest and most brutal, inhuman looking villains that ever passed through Nashville alive. They did not have on their paint, nor the moccasins, beaver skins and the like that you read about but were dirty to filthiness and as unpicturesque a gang as could be gotten up. They lay about the cars, four or five on a seat. The buck Indian generally was stretched out sound asleep while squaws and papooses squatted about in the aisles or anywhere on the floor. They were all Apaches, belonging either to the Chiracahuas or White Mountain tribes. These are known for their treachery and the practice of every kind of villainy. The faces of those yesterday morning betokened the traits and characteristics that had given them this reputation. The men and women looked alike, except that the features of the former were a trifle heavier. They all wore their thick, long matted hair alike. Both sexes wore ornaments in their ears, and sitting down in their seats seemed to be dressed exactly alike. All looked sour, mean and like devils except a few of the younger women, who, by the queerly expressed curiosity of the crowd of spectators, were beguiled into shifting their countenances into so strong a grin or smile as to show magnificent sets of white teeth.

The brutality of the women seemed, in the rather domestic scene that was presented, to be greater than that of the bucks. A little child walked up to its mother, during the stop, when the latter struck it a powerful blow on the head, knocking it down. Other instances of squaw feeling for their young braves were exhibited. The creatures seemed to be civilized only in the accomplishments of civilized depravity and sufficiently to understand and appreciate the meanness of character. Lieut. McMinn told the reporter that the Indians within had been armed with the very finest Winchester rifles and were thoroughly acquainted with the war implements of the day. "What are the characteristics, Lieutenant, of the tribe?" "They are shrewd in warfare and very powerful physically. They possess endurance and are very persistent. Why, for months Geronimo, their infernal leader, with less than a hundred 'braves,' held at bay and constantly attacked a force of United States troops, 5,000 strong, under the command of Gen. Miles. They can travel from sixty to seventy miles per day." "Who was the most dreaded Indian?" "Geronimo, by great odds. He really possessed courage. We had tried for many months to capture him but without effect. The Government has spent over a million dollars in trying to get the wild devil. Two of his wives were captured some time ago and sent to Florida."

Why Four Men Are Happy in S. Boston.

B. Frank Burpee was reported to have had a snug prize in the Louisiana State Lottery, and we ascertained the facts. Mr. B., a saloon keeper, No. 8 Granite street, S. Boston, John Dugan, with the Boston & Albany Railroad, Philbrick, teamsters, Charles and Henry to the August 10th drawing of the Louisiana State Lottery Company, each subscribed $1, and purchased four one-fifth tickets, one of which, No. 35,631, drew one-fifth of the second capital prize $25,000, $1,250 for each share, less Adams Expressage. Mr. B. Frank Burpee is a married man, having a wife and one child. The other three are single men 22 to 30 years of age, sober, steady, and industrious, and will make good use of the money.—Boston, (Mass.) Commercial and Shipping List, August 27.

When Baby was sick, we gave her Castoria.
When she was a Child, she cried for Castoria.
When she became a Girl, she clung to Castoria.
When she had Children, she gave them Castoria.
